WHY I WILL VOTE FOR WILLKIE

By WERNER SCHROEDER
Republican National Committeeman
from Illinois

Wendell Willkie is the most powerful personality that the nation has produced in several generations.

The next four years may prove him to be the most unique individual in the world today.

He upset all precedent by making a forty-eight-day campaign to gain the nomination for the highest office in the land. The tremendous driving power of Willkie gained the confidence of America.

The American people know that something is wrong. For seven years the administration has been given vast powers and unlimited money.

It has experimented and failed. The major problems which vexed us seven years ago are still unsolved.

American common sense knows that we cannot go on indefinitely with only the temporary expedient of lavish spending to meet our social problems. There must be a permanent solution upon a sound economic basis.

Willkie was the answer to this demand of the American people. His mind, his personality, his looks inspire confidence, he gives a feeling of safety and stability.

In private practice as a lawyer he was the type to whom people turned in dire extremities. In public life he is the same.

He is a great mountain of strength to whom the people, particularly the young people look with hope and assurance.

With Willkie the days of "easy come easy go" experiments will be over. There will be a long-term program of social and public progress. Unemployment and distress should vanish before the application of his executive ability, which has made him outstanding in our day.

Intolerance and hate, oppression of one group by another, the destruction of the substantial middle class, all of which we have witnessed for seven years, will be vigorously fought by this man, whose sympathies are as broad as the pattern of American life itself.

Another reason why I will vote for Willkie is that I am opposed to a third term. Every American may well doubt whether Franklin Roosevelt is greater than Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Coolidge and the other great Presidents who spoke and acted against a third term.

There were great problems then, as there are now, but those Presidents considered first the basic rules of American life.

The necessities of the times have always produced men big enough to solve their problems. Our day has produced Wendell Willkie, who has made a success while Roosevelt has failed. A comparison of the abilities of the men indicates we need the change.

The attempt to retain power for the third term is the beginning of dictatorship.

How far the dictatorship will go was hinted at the Democratic national convention. Men who yearned to make a free choice were regimented into nominating Wallace.

If the administration denies liberty of thought to its own party, what will it do to the rest of us?

Even Farley, Garner and Glass were squelched when they refused to go along on the third term.

Let's not make the same mistake that Europe has made. Let's have no dictator. Let's elect Willkie.

Germany Warns Neutral Nations

Says Blockade Of The British Isles Complete

Nazi Bombers Smash At Coastal Towns In New Pre-Dawn Raids

Berlin, Aug. 17.—(AP)—A "total blockade of Britain in answer to Britain's illegal sea warfare was declared by the German government today.

A long communique marshaled numerous instances of what it said were illegal acts by Britain on the seas.

"Germany is convinced that with announcement of a total blockade of the British islands she is taking another decisive step toward ending the war and removal of the responsible contemporary British rulers," the statement said.

German armed forces will "utilize fully" their strategic position from the Bay of Biscay to the north cape of Norway, as well as their supremacy on the sea and in the air around England, it was emphasized.

Neutral Powers Warned

The German note was sent to all neutral countries except Argentina and the United States, asking them to forbid their ships to sail into the German-English war zone. The United States and Argentina were exempted, it was explained, because they have already barred their ships from the war zone by neutrality legislation.

The communique warned that German warplanes henceforth will attack every ship entering the war zone. "Any neutral ship," it said, "which in future sails these regions (the belligerent zones) is exposed to the danger of destruction."

"Therefore," it continued, "the neutral government, in the future and without exception, declines responsibility for any damage inflicted upon ships or persons in these regions."

The German air force, disclosing the use of bigger and more heavily armed bombers against England, augmented its aerial invasion of that island meanwhile with intensified pre-dawn attacks while the high command recounted heavy destruction wrought in yesterday's great assault.

Seek Complete Mastery

With the avowed purpose of gaining complete mastery over Britain, new waves of bombers and fighters streaked out across the channel yesterday, said the air warfare yesterday cost the British 89 planes at a loss of only 31 Nazi craft.

At the same time the British struck back with night raids in central and northern Germany. Damage to buildings and two deaths were admitted.

A Swiss telegraph agency report broadcast by the British Broadcasting corporation and heard in New York said an hour's air alarm was in effect early today at Munich and that heavy explosions were heard west of the city.

Reviewing yesterday's operations, the high command reported the destruction of airports and balloon barrages in the vicinity of London and southeastern England, the sinking of a British destroyer and heavy blows on the harbors of Cardiff, Newport and Bristol, and armament factories in central England.

Three big steamers struck mines and two sank near the Isle of Man this morning, DNB, official German news agency, reported. The third was said to have been given a bad list.

Hold 4 Girls For Threats To "Get" Other

Four girls were arrested by police this morning on a warrant charging them with using profane language, making threats to do bodily harm and disorderly conduct.

The complainant, Mrs. Louise Madlet of 371 North Harrison avenue, said the girls came to her home seeking her daughter Theresa and caused a disturbance when told she wasn't at home.

The four, Irene Martin, 17, of 538 East Cypress street; Maurine LaRoche, 17, of 245 Illinois avenue; Elaine Perick, 15, of 538 East Cypress, and Eleanor Heffner, 17, of 211 Industrial avenue, were ordered bound over to county court by Police Magistrate Edward Hoenicke after hearing evidence.

The Martin girl admitted in court that she was out to "get" the Maillet girl and will "beat the hell out of her when I get the chance" because of some remark she allegedly made. The only evidence presented concerning this remark, however, was hearsay.

Testimony showed that the Martin and LaRoche girls did the talking and the other two happened to be along. In a previous trip to county court, the Martin, LaRoche and Perick girls were forbidden to associate with one another.

3 Vehicles Collide On East Court St.

Three vehicles were involved in a crash at Court and Chicago avenues shortly after 10 o'clock Friday night. Although one of the machines overturned, all passengers escaped injury.

A westbound truck of the LaBeau brothers, operated by Edward Gerstle of 1406 South Sixth avenue, collided with the northbound car of William Marshall of 1032 South Schuyler avenue. The latter rolled over and crashed into the parked machine of Donald Kirts of 921 South Osborn avenue.

Other accidents yesterday involved autos of Leslie Stupples of Kempton and James Stark of 917 North Ninth avenue at Washington and Station streets; Reno Gusti of Chicago and the parked car of George Witte, 759 North Rosewood avenue.

Police Recover 2 More Stolen Cars

The remaining two cars of the five stolen Thursday night in the city were recovered by police last night.

The auto of Fred Swannell was found in Homewood where it had been stripped. The vehicle of Dr. W. E. Schwietert of 326 North Greenwood avenue was located in Chicago Heights.

Willkie Rests Before Indiana Acceptance Speech

Arriving in Indiana a day before he was scheduled to make his formal acceptance speech at Elwood, Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential candidate spent his time in Rushville, his wife's home town, resting, putting the final touches to his address and

GOP Nominee Accuses Roosevelt Of Courting A War For Which This Country Is Hopelessly Unprepared

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Accusing President Roosevelt of courting "a war for which this country is hopelessly unprepared," Wendell L. Willkie challenged the chief executive today to a series of campaign debates on foreign and domestic policies.

In a speech formally accepting the Republican presidential nomination, the 48-year-old former utilities executive expressed support of "some sort of selective service," as the only democratic way to obtain manpower for defense.

But he took sharp issue with Mr. Roosevelt's conduct of foreign affairs, telling a large crowd in Callaway park.

"He has dabbled in inflammatory statements and manufactured panics. The president's attacks on foreign powers have been useless and dangerous. He has courted a war for which the country is hopelessly unprepared—and which it emphatically does not want."

Meddled in European Affairs

"He has secretly meddled in the affairs of Europe, and he has even unscrupulously encouraged other countries to hope for more help than we are able to give."

Contrasting his own views on international relations, Willkie said: "I promise, by returning to those same American principles that overcame German autocracy once before, both in business and in war, to outdistance Hitler in any contest he chooses in 1940 or after."

"And I promise that when we beat him, we shall beat him on our own terms, in our own American way."

The Republican nominee declared that the "promises of the present administration cannot lead you to victory against Hitler, or against anyone else."

Willkie declared that if he were president, "I should... threaten foreign governments only when our country is threatened by them and when I was ready to act."

Challenges F.D.R. to Debate

Then he proposed that, in the next two and a half months, he and Mr. Roosevelt appear together in various parts of the country to debate "the fundamental issues of this campaign."

Willkie listed these issues as problems of domestic economy—agriculture, labor, industry and finance—as well as problems of national defense.

"And also I should like to debate," he said, "the question of the assumption by the president, in seeking a third term, of a greater public confidence than was accorded to our presidential giants, Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln, Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson."

Coupled with Willkie's criticism of New Deal foreign policies was a denunciation of its domestic program. "This administration stands for principles exactly opposite to mine," he said. "It does not preach the doctrine of growth. It preaches the doctrine of division."

"We are not asked to make more for ourselves. We are asked to divide among ourselves that which we already have. The New Deal doctrine does not seek risk. It seeks safety. Let us call it 'the Pass' doctrine."

Highlights Of Willkie's Acceptance

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Here are some key sentences in Wendell L. Willkie's formal address today accepting the Republican presidential nomination.

I propose that during the next two and a half months, the President and I appear together on public platforms in various parts of the country, to debate the fundamental issues of this campaign.

Mr. Roosevelt has dabbled in inflammatory statements and manufactured panics. The President's attacks on foreign powers have been useless and dangerous. He has courted a war for which the country is hopelessly unprepared—and which it emphatically does not want. He has secretly meddled in the affairs of Europe, and he has even unscrupulously encouraged other countries to hope for more help than we are able to give.

As president—I should—threaten foreign governments only when our country was threatened by them and when I was ready to act.

I can not ask the American people to put their faith in me without recording my conviction that some form of selective service is the only democratic way in which to secure the trained and competent manpower we need for national defense.

We must admit that the loss of the British fleet would greatly weaken our defense. The Atlantic might be dominated by Germany, a power hostile to our way of life. This would be a calamity for us.

We must face a brutal, perhaps, a terrible fact. Our way of life is in competition with Hitler's way of life. I promise to outdistance Hitler in any contest he chooses in 1940 or after.

I charge that the course this administration is following will lead us, like France, to the end of the road. I say this course will lead us to economic disintegration and dictatorship.

I am saying to you that we cannot rebuild our American destiny without hardship, without sacrifice, even without suffering. I am proposing that come to you as a candidate for election by you.

I am opposed to business monopolies. I believe in collective bargaining by representatives of labor's own free choice, without any interference and in the full protection of those obvious rights. I believe in the maintenance of minimum standard for hours. I believe in the federal regulation of interstate utilities, or securities markets and of banking. I believe in federal pensions, in adequate old age benefits and in unemployment allowances.

I believe that the federal government has a responsibility to equalize the lot of the farmer with that of the manufacturer. If this can not be done by parity of prices other means must be found—with the least possible regimentation of the farmer's affairs.

The New Deal stands for doing what has to be done by spending as much money as possible. I propose to do it by spending as little money as possible.

To Celebrate Labor Day At Manteno

For the first time in many years, Labor day will be observed in Manteno this year. A celebration is being arranged by the American Legion and auxiliary who plan a fish fry, games, speakers and a dance in Goussett hall.

Flag-Bedecked Home Town Of G.O.P. Leader

Official Opening Of The Presidential Campaign; Accepts Nomination

By THEODORE F. KOOP

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 17.—(AP)—The flag-bedecked home town of Wendell L. Willkie welcomed throngs of visitors in a gala county fair atmosphere today for the official opening of the Republican presidential campaign.

Long before the nominee's special train was due at 12:30 p. m. (est), crowds were arriving by all forms of conveyance.

They had two main goals—the big red brick school house where Willkie asked to make a short speech early in the afternoon, and Callaway park on the edge of town, site of his formal acceptance address.

While awaiting the ceremonies, many of the visitors walked or rode by the freshly-painted white house at 1900 A street, where Willkie was born 48 years ago. It cost 20 cents to go inside. In the yard was a stand—one of hundreds throughout the city—with soda pop, peanuts and popcorn on sale.

Visits His Farms

Willkie himself, along with his wife, and son, Phillip, decided to stay until the last minute at Rushville, where they had been visiting since Thursday night. Yesterday had been set aside as a day of rest for the nominee, but he kept busy with two visits to his five farms farms and a surprise evening call on the newspapermen covering his activities.

The other participants in the notification program were on hand earlier. Representative Charles H. Mack of Indiana, who placed Willkie's name before the Republican convention, was selected to open the Callaway park speech-making at 3 p. m. to representative Joseph Martin of Massachusetts, national party chairman, who will be the first to inform Willkie of his nomination.

Week-End In Rushville

The presidential candidate prepared a 30-minute speech outlining his views on domestic and foreign issues. He will return to Rushville this evening for the week-end.

Willkie's week-end in Rushville, on circular panels on each downtown light post, surrounded by clusters of American flags. In front of the high school which bears the legend "the hope of our country," a speaking platform was erected.

In the park, where the arrangements were completed just in time for the festivities. For the background of the platform, there was a long white wall, splashed with red stars and flags. In front of this, 35,000 seats were placed, with plenty of standing room. In the park, in which every kind of food from fish to watermelon could be purchased. Special water mains were run into the grounds to take care of the thirsty, and parking lots were provided both there and in adjacent fields, where stalls had been newly cut down.

"Home Folks" Not Alone

It was a day to which Elwood had been looking forward for nearly two months.

But the "home folks" were not alone in extending greetings to the Republican nominee. Special trains chartered by various Republican organizations came from several states, and each Indiana congressional district had a tent.

The arrangements committee decided against a general parade, but agreed to yet separate groups hold impromptu marches. An elephant was tethered in the park yesterday to head one unit.

To help the early comers pass the time, there was a downtown program of entertainment last night, with stage and radio artists participating. A yellow moon alone downed the concessions who bought up huge stocks of ice cream and cold drinks hoped that the sun this afternoon would be just as bright.

Water Supply Inadequate At Manteno State Hospital

With Manteno state hospital steadily increasing in size, the recent expansion of the water system at the institution is not thought sufficient to meet the demand.

The well just completed does not provide the amount of water state engineers expected. With only one more well to complete the new set-up of five wells as a source of water, doubts are being expressed as to the adequacy of any drilled well system.

This type of experimentation has been tried at other institutions and found unreliable. The state hospital at Anna had the same trouble and finally installed a pump to handle river water. Allen obtains its water from a river also.

Had the plan of obtaining water either from the Kankakee river or from the city of Kankakee, a permanent source would have been obtained.

Recently the village of Manteno also issued notices cautioning residents to be more conservative with village water.

Reports persist that a number of persons are still resigning at Manteno state and returning to their homes claiming working conditions are unbearable. Some of these new rules others object to the type of food, quite a few drive into Manteno for lunch.

Diplomatic Move By Germany Is Expected Soon

Berlin, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Diplomatic quarters reported today that Germany is expected to make an important diplomatic move in connection with the war within the next 24 hours.

There was no official confirmation of the report, but it was understood that the move was in no way connected with any sort of peace offer.

It was stated that there had been considerable diplomatic activity in Berlin in the last 12 hours and that this activity was connected with the expected move.

Beyond the statement that no peace offer was to be expected, there was no hint as to the nature of the move. The announcement of it was expected tonight or tomorrow.

(London yesterday charged that Berlin was issuing exaggerated reports of the effectiveness of German air raids on Britain in hope of drawing Japan and Spain into the war.)

Demands $3,000 For Truck-Auto Crash

A suit for damages of $3,000 was filed for the circuit court today by Maxwell Smith of Reddick vs. the Ward Baking company and Ben Irvington, of Kankakee, truck driver for the company.

The suit is the result of an accident between a truck driven by Irvington and Smith's car on a county road near Herscher last Dec. 13.

The complaint, filed in the office of Circuit Clerk Albert Tetrault by Attorney Victor Davidson, charges the defendants with negligence and high speed. It says Smith was injured and his car wrecked.

Spectacular Crime Career Of Dalton Gang Is Dramatized At The Paramount On Sunday

"When the Daltons Rode," Universal's saga of frontier America, in the days of the celebrated Dalton gang, comes to the Paramount theater Sunday with Randolph Scott and Kay Francis heading a distinguished cast.

Based on the exciting book of the same name, the film traces the careers of the Dalton boys as ranch owners who are led into spectacular crime by the persecutions of a land company.

Double Hold-up—The story reaches a climax with the historic raid on Coffeyville, Kan., in 1892, when the gang was destroyed while staging the old West's only double bank robbery.

Miss Francis, portraying the first action role of her career, appears as the winsome telegraph operator of the real-life sweetheart of one of Coffeyville, a character based on the Daltons. Scott plays a frontier lawyer who befriends the Daltons and helps bring the land company agents to justice.

The four Daltons are portrayed by Brian Donlevy, Broderick Crawford, Stuart Erwin and Frank Albertson, while Andy Devine has what has been described as one of his best roles as the Dalton's girl-chasing ranch hand who joins the gang in their maraudings.

Other important roles are played by George Bancroft as the rich man of the town and by Mary Gordon as the mother of the Daltons; also in the cast are Harvey Stephens, Quen Ramsey, Edgar Deering and others.

George Marshall directed "When the Daltons Rode" from a screen play by Harold Shumate.

Two Laugh Riots At Darb

The Foster Parent Rapidly Increasing In Numbers

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

With thousands of refugee European children headed for Canada and the United States, the problem of the foster parent is increasing. Independent of the war, foster parenthood has been growing rapidly in the United States. In recent years child caring (welfare) agencies have been shifting emphasis from institutional care of the homeless child to his care in normal homes and families.

The demand for foster homes for delinquent and dependent children has been growing rapidly during the past few years, much greater than the supply. In some cities there has been a strong effort by the welfare federation to stimulate greater readiness among married pairs to provide homes for homeless children. It should be observed that most of the children for whom foster homes are desired are not delinquent or destitute children, or children whose homes are considered by the court as unfit for them.

Boarding Parents—Some parents and childless married couples obligate themselves to become foster parents without pay. Others receive a nominal sum for board, hence called "boarding parents." Sometimes the foster parents decide to adopt the child after they have had him in their home for some while.

It is the practice of the child caring agency to check carefully upon the home before placing the child in it, as a temporary home or for adoption. Unless or until the child is adopted, the agency keeps in touch with the foster home and exercises general supervision over the child.

During a forum discussion with 450 foster mothers of Allegheny county, at Pittsburgh, some months ago, I learned that some parents or childless couples serve as foster parents for one or several children for years and report great personal satisfaction with the undertaking.

This was a kind of "experience meeting" in which many foster parents told of the children they had mothered who turned out well and developed into good, useful citizens. As I said to the audience, I hardly know when I ever stood before so many unselfish souls. They are doing more good than they will ever know.

Modern Challenge—Refugee children offer a peculiar challenge today. Making a home for them may, however, carry with it a greater obligation than that of being foster parents to children in the immediate community. The average refugee child has been unaccustomed to so much luxury and freedom as our native children and there will be a strong temptation of some who mother these children to be over-indulgent toward them. Some will fail to train these children in self-reliance, self-sacrifice and responsibility.

Then there is the problem of relatives and neighbors who, with a kind of morbid curiosity, will want to know all the details about the child's experiences incident to the war.

Let them mind their own business. Refuse to discuss such matters with them, especially in the child's presence. Don't allow them to "pump" the child. Try to act toward this child as toward any other normal child. The more you can help him forget his tragic past the better.

Solving Parent Problems—Q. How long should an infant sleep in each 24 hours?

A. From birth to four months, practically all the time when not being fed and bathed; from 5 months to 1 year, 16 to 18 hours; from 1 to 2 years, 14 to 16 hours; from 2 to 4 years, 13 to 14 hours; 4 to 6 years, 12 to 13 hours.

Q. Suppose the grandmother, mother or neighbor recognizes clear symptoms of measles, or chicken pox, or the like developing in the child, and does not call the doctor so the family won't be quarantined, even though they quarantine themselves?

Look Like You Care

By HELEN FOLLETT

Brains and beauty make a wonderful team. They get you places, and the traveling is pleasant. The beautiful-but-dumb attracts the eye, but hasn't any staying powers. The intellectual, bright lady is a charming companion but may be so engrossed in cultural pursuits that she forgets to curl her hair and powder her nose. Beautifying is an all-around job. It is physical, mental and emotional.

Good appearance, smartly duds, nice manners, fastidiousness about small details of the toilet, build, poise and self confidence. Look scrubby and you'll feel that way. Get into a pretty frock, have a new hairdo, put on the fresh-laid complexion, add a touch of perfume and the world is yours—such as it is—if you want it. Health and vitality are big factors. Animation puts starlight in the eyes. A good natural smile will win any beauty race. The woman who lives a well-organized life, doesn't get fussed and rattled over disappointments and small annoyances, is likely to hang onto her looks, while the fretter will grow a face that is lined with irritation ditches.

Enjoy your cosmetics, my paper friends, revel in makeup and curly-cues, but don't forget that it is what you are, what you say, and how you get along with your fellow creatures that count more in the long run.

Oily complexions are more troublesome than usual this season of the year.
